

WILL TAKE CHARGE WITH LITTLE DELAY

Mr. Barr Expected to Take Up the Business Affairs of the Exposition at Once.

TO SERVE WITHOUT SALARY

Compensation of the Exposition Governors Said to Be $5,000 Each.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION
GROUNDS, May 31.—Mr. James M.
Barr, who has consented to take the very important position in the direction of the affairs of the exposition, recently tendered him by the governors, will probably enter upon his duties at once.

The matter will doubtless be arranged at the meeting of the directors and stockholders of the exposition, to be held to-morrow, and it is likely that the official association of Mr. Barr with the enterprise will date from that time. It is understood that Mr.
Barr prefers that his appointment should not carry any title. That he will wield a potential influence in the direction of the affairs of the exposition there is no doubt.

Matter of Salary.
The announcement that Mr. Barr will not accept any salary for his services has attracted a good deal of attention.
He is a man of the business experience and executive ability. Long years of service as a railroad manager have but added to his reputation. One of his strong points is economy in administration.

It is understood that the directors of the exposition receive no compensation.
Of course the president is paid a good salary. The compensation of the governors has never been made public, but has been reported to be $5,000 each. It is said that one or two of the governors receive more, perhaps as much as $5,- 000.

Each governor has charge of a department which has its directing head, assistants, clerks, etc., varying in number according to the work to be done.
The following are the governors:
C. Brooks Johnston, chairman.
T. S. Southgate, exhibits.
W. E. Cottrill, works.
J. Taylor Elyson, history and education.
C. S. Sherwood, concessions, admissions and collections.
Barton Myers, ways and means and exploitation.
Alvah H. Martin, transportation.

Berryville's Lighting Plant.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) BERRYVILLE, VA., May 31.—The town was lighted up for the first time to-night by electric lights, the Battle-town Inn was brilliantly illuminated.
The power was furnished by the Winchester and Washington Electric Railway Company, from the dam at Mill ville, W. Va., about sixteen miles from Berryville.

Signal Tower Burned.
ROANOKE, VA., May 31.—The Norfolk and Western interlocking signal tower at Roanoke was destroyed by fire this morning. There was a gasoline engine in the tower and it was thought the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion. The loss is about $5,000.

Senator Daniel to Speak.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., May 31.—Chairman J. S. Barron, of the joint committee on arrangements of the exposition, today invited United States Senator John W. Daniel to be the orator on Tidewater Day at the Jamestown Expon-sition on June 7th.

WOMAN'S RELIEF

What Cardui Did

One can only judge of what Cardui will do for you, by what it has done for others.

It has been called "Woman's Relief," because of its wonderful power, demonstrated in actual experience before the public, during more than 50 years, over the pains, distresses and ills, from which women are so prone to suffer.

During this time, over a million suffering women have successfully invoked its aid, in their womanly troubles.

As an individual case, we will instance that of Mrs. Emma Carrier, of Emmett, Tenn., who writes as follows: "Wine of Cardui has done me more good than all four of the doctors who treated my case. I went through several operations for female trouble, but I got no better; until I took Wine of Cardui, which brought me relief. I consider it the most wonderful woman's medicine in the world, and cannot sufficiently express my gratitude for it."

Mrs. Emma Carrier
Emmett, Tenn.

Cardui is a specific, curative remedy, for women. It has been found to relieve pain and distress, regulate irregularities and strengthen weak womanly organs. Sold by dealers everywhere in $1 bottles, with full directions for use. Why not try it?

All-Day Holiness Meeting.
An all-day holiness meeting will go on to-morrow in the West End Rescue Mission, No. 806 West Cary Street. Services will be as follows: 10 A. M.—Sunday-school lesson taught.
11 A. M.—Praise and testimony meeting and sermon subject, "More Than Conquerors." Romans, vii:37.
3 P. M.—Holiness revival.
8 P. M.—Holiness unto the Lord.
C. H. Gootee, of Preston, Md., formerly with D. L. Moody, will have charge of the service. Visitors especially welcomed.

TARHEEL VETERANS TO UNVEIL WINDOW

Four Hundred Soldiers Going to Petersburg To-Morrow.

MEMORIAL AT BLANDFORD

PETERSBURG, VA., May 31.—The North Carolina memorial window in old Blandford Church, now a Confederate memorial chapel, will be unveiled Sunday afternoon, and Mayor William M.
Jones has accepted the invitation contained in the following telegram: Richmond, Va., May 30.
Mr. W. M. Jones, Mayor of Petersburg, Va.:
Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock one hundred North Carolinians will visit Petersburg to unveil the memorial window in Blandford Church, sacred to North Carolina's dead. You are cordially and earnestly invited to be present and preside at the ceremonies.

JULIAN S. CARR,
Major-General Commanding North Carolina Veterans.
The window arrived several days ago, and is being placed in position.

Trunk Makers Strike.
About forty trunk makers at the Petersburg Trunk and Bag Company's factory went on strike this morning because of an alleged combination among the trunk manufacturers. A conference committee of strikers appointed at the suggestion of their employers found little evidence of any combination, and the men may return to work to-morrow, but it is understood that some of them propose to visit the other trunk factories and induce the trunk makers to walk out.

Public Schools Close.
The public schools of Petersburg closed to-day for the session of 1906-1907. Interesting exercises were held at all the institutions, and at the High School the following graduates and medalists received diplomas: Florence Clayton, Nellie Green, Virginia Har-grave, Fannie Leake, Josephine Steele, Rosa Stewart, Nellie Thomas, Mary Tomlin, Ethel Winfield, Charles Butler, Howard Eanes, Townsend Gerow, Ailie Kirk, Graham McManaway, George Rolfe, George Shepherd, Miss Rosa Stewart received the prize for penmanship in the graduating class, and other awards were made as follows: Prize in cooking school, Clarine Totty; prize for stenography, graduating class, Fannie Leake; prize for greatest improvement in stenography, Melville Brister. Miss Mary R. Peebles attended the following graduates in the junior grade, with Maxwell L. Levy second, Miss Florence M. Clayton and Maxwell L. Levy were perfect in attendance and punctuality.

Other News Notes.
Mr. Bartlett Rorer has received a letter from Rev. George C. Cates, who conducted the recent union revival in this city, expressing his gratitude to the people of Petersburg for their generous free will offering for his work.
Mr. Cates speaks enthusiastically of the meeting in Yazoo City, Miss., where he is now conducting a revival.

During a baseball game yesterday afternoon between the Petersburg Club and the Battle Ax team, of Richmond, at Kenilworth Park, a handsome gold watch was presented to Mr. James T.
Rahilly, on behalf of the Petersburg Club, to Dr. Aubrey Burke, the Petersburg first-baseman.

PRESIDENT THINKS BABY CROP IS BEST

are not the formidable industrial competitors of this country. What the American workingman has to fear is the competition of the highly skilled workingman of the countries of greatest industrial efficiency. By the tariff and by our immigration laws we can always protect ourselves against the competition of pauper labor here at home; but when we contend for the markets of the world we can get no protection, and we shall then find that our most formidable competitors are the nations in which there is the most highly developed business ability, the most highly developed industrial skill, and these are the qualities which we must ourselves develop.

The Dignity of Labor.
"We have been fond, as a nation, of speaking of the dignity of labor, meaning thereby manual labor. Personally, I don't think that we begin to understand what a high place manual labor should take; and it never can take this high place unless it offers scope for the best type of man. We have tended to regard education as a matter of the head only, and the result is that a great many of our people, themselves the sons of men who worked with their hands, seem to think that they rise in the world if they get into a position where they do not do manual work whatever; where their hands will grow soft, and their working clothes will be kept clean. Such a conception is both false and mischievous. There are, of course, kinds of labor where the work must be purely mental, and there are other kinds of labor where, under existing conditions, very little demand indeed is made upon the mind, though I am glad to say that I think the proportion of men engaged in this kind of work is diminishing.

The Wage Worker.
"There is but one person whose welfare is as vital to the welfare of the whole country as is that of the wage-worker who does manual labor; and that is the tiller of the soil—the farmer. If there is one lesson taught by history it is that the permanent greatness of any State must ultimately depend upon the character of its country population than upon anything else. No growth of cities, no growth of wealth, can make up for a loss in either the number or the character of the farming population. In the United States more than in almost any other country we should realize this, and should prize our country population.
When this nation began its independent existence it was as a nation of farmers. The towns were small, and were for the most part mere seacoast trading and fishing ports. The chief industry of the country was agriculture, and the ordinary citizen was in some way connected with it. In every great crisis of the past a peculiar dependence has had to be placed upon the farming population, and this dependence has hitherto been justified.
But it cannot be justified in the future if agriculture is permitted to sink in the scale as compared with other employments. We cannot afford to lose that pre-eminently typical American, the farmer who owns his own farm.
The cornerstones of our unexampled prosperity are, on the one hand, the production of raw materials, and its manufacture and distribution on the other. These two great groups of subjects are represented in the national government principally by the Departments of Agriculture and of Commerce and Labor. The production of raw material from the surface of the earth is the sphere in which the Department of Agriculture has hitherto achieved such notable results.

Need of Co-operation.
"Farmers must learn the vital need of co-operation with one another.
Next to this comes co-operation with the government, and the government must give its aid through associations of farmers, rather than through the individual farmer; for there is no greater agricultural problem than that of delivering to the farmer the large body of agricultural knowledge which has been accumulated by the national and State governments and by the agricultural colleges and schools. Nowhere has the government been able to better advance than in the South, where the work done by the Department of Agriculture in connection with the cotton growers of the Southwestern States has been phenomenal in its value.
The farmers in the region affected by the boll weevil, in the course of the efforts to fight it, have succeeded in developing the most scientific method, so that in many places the boll weevil became a blessing in disguise.

Farmers Must Combine.
"The people of our farming regions must be able to combine among themselves, as the most efficient means of protecting their industry from the highly organized interests which now surround them on every side. A vast field is open for work by co-operative associations of farmers in dealing with the relation of the farm to transportation and to the distribution and manufacture of raw materials. It is only through such combination that American farmers can develop to the full their economic and social power.
Combination of this kind has, in Denmark, for instance, resulted in bringing the people back to the land, and in developing the average peasant to competence in extraordinary fashion, not only at home, but in foreign countries, with all rivals.

Must Help the Women.
"I have hearty sympathy with the movement to better the condition of the average tiller of the soil, of the average wageworker, and I have an even heartier sympathy and applause for the movement which is to better the condition of their respective wives.
There is plenty of time and energy and disinterestedness in the necessary work of actual life; and under the best circumstances, and no matter how tender the women.

Diplomas to Graduates.
At the conclusion of the address the graduating class filed across the platform, and the President presented them with their diplomas. Honorary degrees were conferred upon a number of distinguished visitors, including Clifford Pinchot, Secretary Wilson and President Angell. The presidential party then returned to the city, and shortly afterward left for Washington.

BLACKSTONE, VA., May 31.—The annual address before the alumni association of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute was delivered in the commencement hall this morning by Allen I. Harless, of Christiansburg. On the rostrum with the speaker were President McBryde, of the Institute; H. M.
Smith, president of the alumni association, members of the faculty and the alumni who are on the grounds.

Mr. Smith made a very happy introductory speech, paying a feeling tribute to Dr. McBryde and his service in behalf of the V. P. I., also bespeaking for his successor the cordial support and co-operation of the members of the alumni association. Mr. Harless announced as his subject, "Success in Life," and after brief remarks concerning his student days at the college and words of appreciation for the retiring president, delivered with considerable oratorical power, a carefully and considerate the husband, the wife will have at least her full share of work and worry and anxiety; but if the man is worth his salt he will try to take as much as possible of the burden of the shoulders of his helpmate. There is nothing Utopian in the movement; all that is necessary is to strive toward raising the average, both of men and women, to the level on which the highest type of family now stands, among American farmers, among American skilled mechanics, among American citizens generally; for in all the world there is no better and healthier home life, no finer factory of individual character, nothing more representative of what is best and most characteristic in American life than that which exists in the higher type of American family; and this higher type of family is to be found everywhere among us, and the property of no special group of citizens.

Best Crop is Children.

"The best crop is the crop of children; the best products of the farm are the men and women raised thereon; and the most instructive and practical treatises on farming, necessary though they be, are no more necessary than the books which teach us our duty to our neighbor, and above all to the neighbor who is of our own household.

Race Suicide Talk.
"Do not misunderstand me. I have not the slightest sympathy with those hysterical and foolish creatures who wish women to attain to easy lives by shirking their duties. I have as hearty a contempt for the woman who shirks her duty of bearing and rearing the children of doing her full household work, as I have for the man who is an idler, who shirks his duty of earning a living for himself and for his household, or who is selfish or brutal toward his wife and children. I believe in the happiness that comes from the performance of duty, not from the avoidance of duty. But I believe also in trying, each of us, as strength is given us, to hear one another's burden, and this especially in our own homes. No outside training, no cooperation, no government aid or direction can take the place of a strong and upright character; of goodness of heart combined with clearness of head, and that strength and toughness of fibers necessary to seeing success from a rough work-a-day world. Nothing outside of home can take the place of home. The school is an invaluable adjunct to the home, but it is a wretched substitute for it. The family relation is the most fundamental, the most important of all relations. No leader in church or state, in science or art or industry, however great his achievement, does work which compares in importance with that of the father and the mother, who are the first of sovereigns and the most divine of priests."

artist's pencil. To dwell in "Animaldom" will be an ever-increasing source of delight for boys and girls of this city, and we suspect that their parents will be found looking over their shoulders, on the same principle that induces them to take the little ones to the circus.
